RESEARCH

I study food, people, and land, and how they shape each other through cooking and eating. My work traces the relationships between flavour, ecology & evolution, and biocultural diversity, and their politics in the Anthropocene. I work with microbes & fermentation, gastronomic innovation, agricultural politics, and sustainability, across science & technology studies, environmental humanities, and multispecies anthropology.

In my group, Sustainable Food Innovation, we use culinary research and development to make flavourful sustainable foods, natural sciences to study how they work, and social sciences to explore how they can contribute to food culture. Through this union of innovation, transdisciplinary research, and open knowledge-sharing, we work for a food system that is more sustainable, equitable, and transparent, offering foods that are more diverse, nourishing, and delicious.

ACADEMIC POSITIONS

Senior Researcher and Group Leader, Sustainable Food Innovation, 2021-present
Center for Biosustainability, Technical University of Denmark

DEGREES

DPhil	University of Oxford, Geography and the Environment	2022
MPhil	University of Cambridge, History and Philosophy of Science (First)	2017
B.A.	Yale University, Humanities (with Distinction)	2012

SELECTED ADDITIONAL EDUCATION

Visiting PhD student, Section for Evolutionary Genomics, GLOBE Institute, University of Copenhagen	2018-2020
MSc course: Microbiology of Fermented Foods and Beverages (final mark: 12) Department of Food Science, University of Copenhagen	2013

SELECTED OTHER EMPLOYMENT

Lead Researcher & Project Manager, Nordic Food Lab / University of Copenhagen	2014-2016
Researcher and Project Manager, Nordic Food Lab / Restaurant Noma	2013-2014
Research Intern, Nordic Food Lab / Restaurant Noma	2012-2013

GRANTS AS PI OR CO-PI

SFI Group Core Grant, Novo Nordisk Foundation, 11.25 million DKK	2021-25
'Deliciousness as an Argument for Entomophagy', Velux Foundation, 3.6 million DKK	2013-16
